

LEGO FAIR

Guidelines for each Entry:

- Each participant can enter a project or several projects that are centered around a theme. (All of the projects entered in the theme must fit into the designated space.) For example, child can enter one single project or enter a group of projects, as long as they are centered around a theme.
- Lego creations must be the original work of the student. Only minimal assistance from adults should be given. Projects should NOT be made from the Lego directions or kits, but from the imagination of the child's mind.
- Lego subjects must be appropriate to a Christian audience. HOME content Policy must to followed
- Each entry should take up no more space than a 1.5' x 4' area. (This is the approximate area of a display board.) If you are not using a display board, it is recommended that you bring a stand to display your work. Be creative!!
- Any type of Lego project is allowed: Duplo, Bricks, Bionicles, Click-Its, etc.
- Artist Statement: This paragraph should either be typed or in the participant's own handwriting. Children 6 and under can dictate their statement to their parents to type.
- It should include:
  - Title
  - Description of their entry
  - How long it took to create the project
  - How long they have been creating with Legos
  - Any other details the participant would like to include.

**DO NOT PUT THE CHILD'S NAME ON THEIR DISPLAY OR ARTIST'S STATEMENT****

Project Judging:

- The Lego projects will be judged by individuals from outside of the H.O.M.E. group.

- Projects will be judged according to a point scale. See attached judging form for breakdown of points.
- Each project will receive either a blue, red, or white ribbon based on the total number of points awarded.
- Judges will award a Judges' Choice Grand Award for each age level, in addition to the ribbon given.
- Fair attendees will vote on their favorite Lego project for each level. A People's Choice Award will be given for the Lego project receiving the most votes in each age level.
- All participants will receive a participation gift for entering.
